

The Photography Group (Kevin Lucas)

Once a year the Photography Group has a night time outing and this year a small group ventured to the Olympic Park at Stratford.

We have used this location on a number of occasions, but this was our first night time visit. It was very noticeable how the park has developed over the years. Prominent organisations that have opened premises there include the V&A Museum, Sadlers Well, and the BBC.

One of the most popular structures in the park of course is the ArcelorMittal Orbit, but no one was tempted to try the slide which is the tallest and longest tunnel slide in the world – and well worth go if you are an adrenalin fiend!

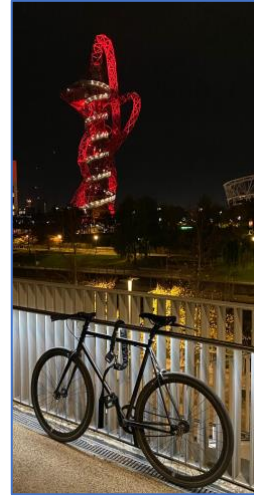

Here is a sample of our Orbit photographs as we took a lot of these:-

The next outing for the Group is planned for 27th November and will be a walk around Shoreditch. Further information will be circulated nearer the time.

To join the Photography Group, no special expertise or equipment is normally required and members with no interest in photography are welcome to join us purely for the outings. We have visited some very interesting locations in London.
